

How to configure Templates in MCh Mobile Studio software

In this section we will demonstrate how to configure Templates in the Mch Mobile Studio Software.

Templates are used with the objective of reducing the time in creating screens that have the same items, keys or accesses. it is also possible to create more than one template.

Internally in the software, in the Templates option it is possible to create the screens with the desired functions, below is an image.

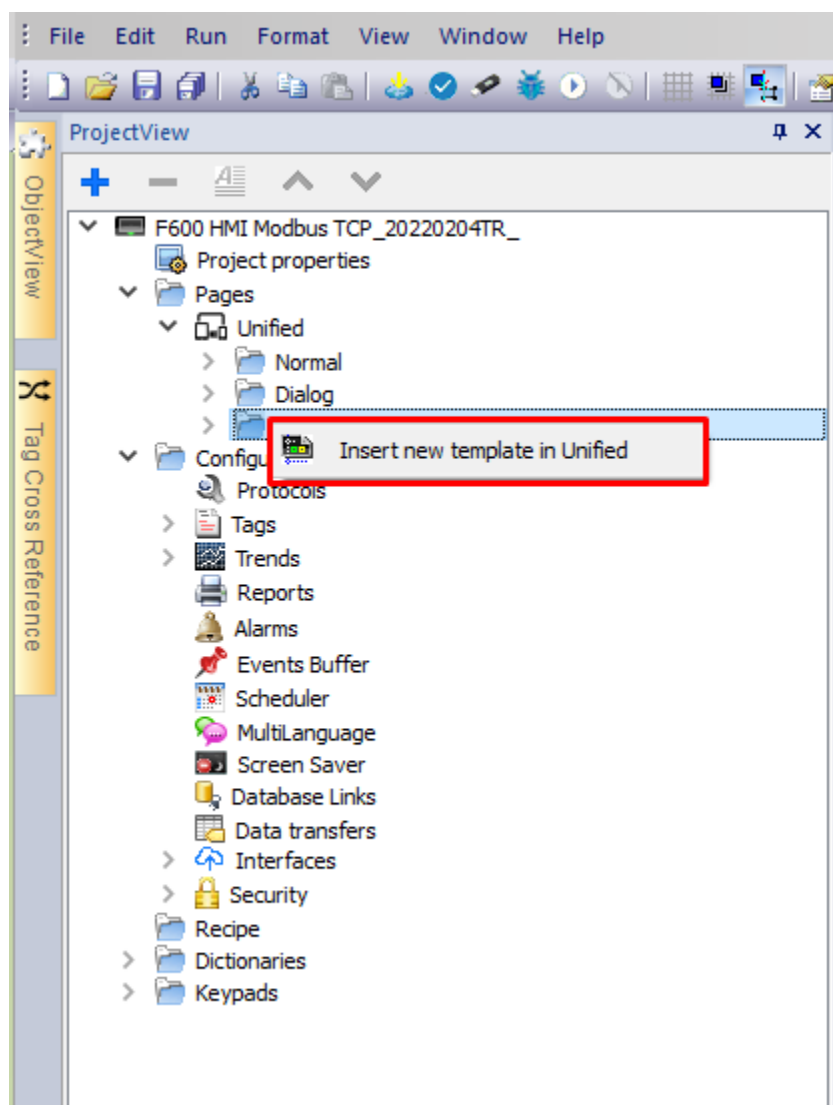

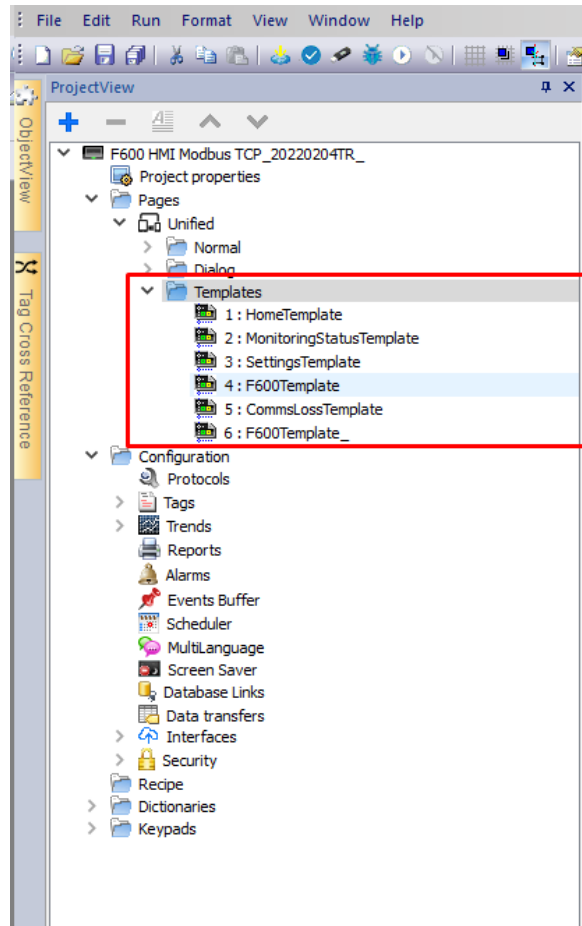

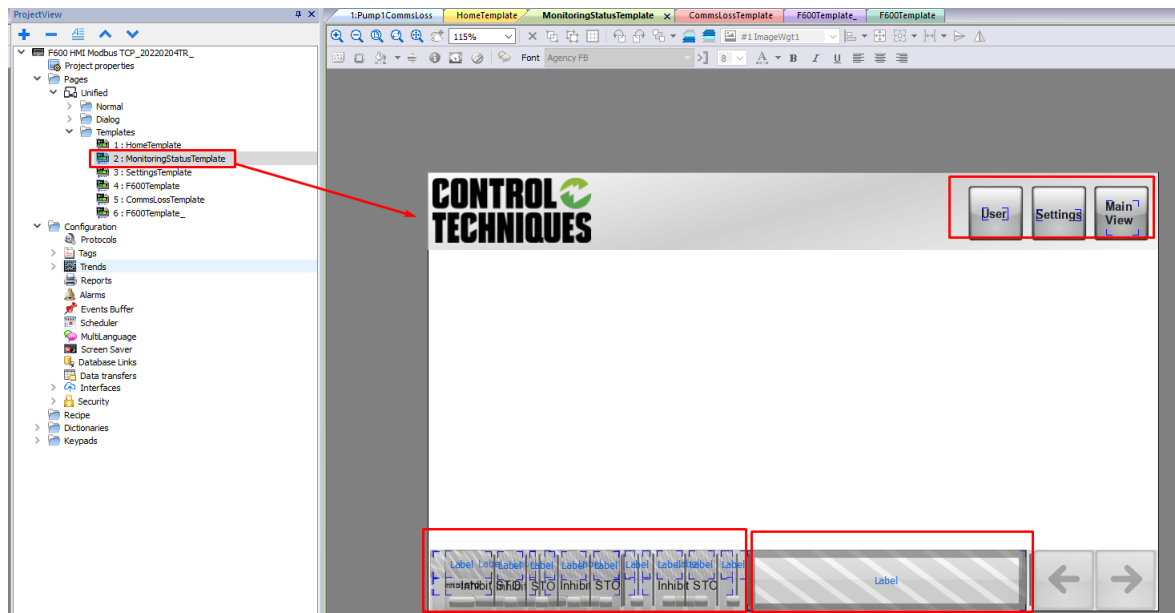

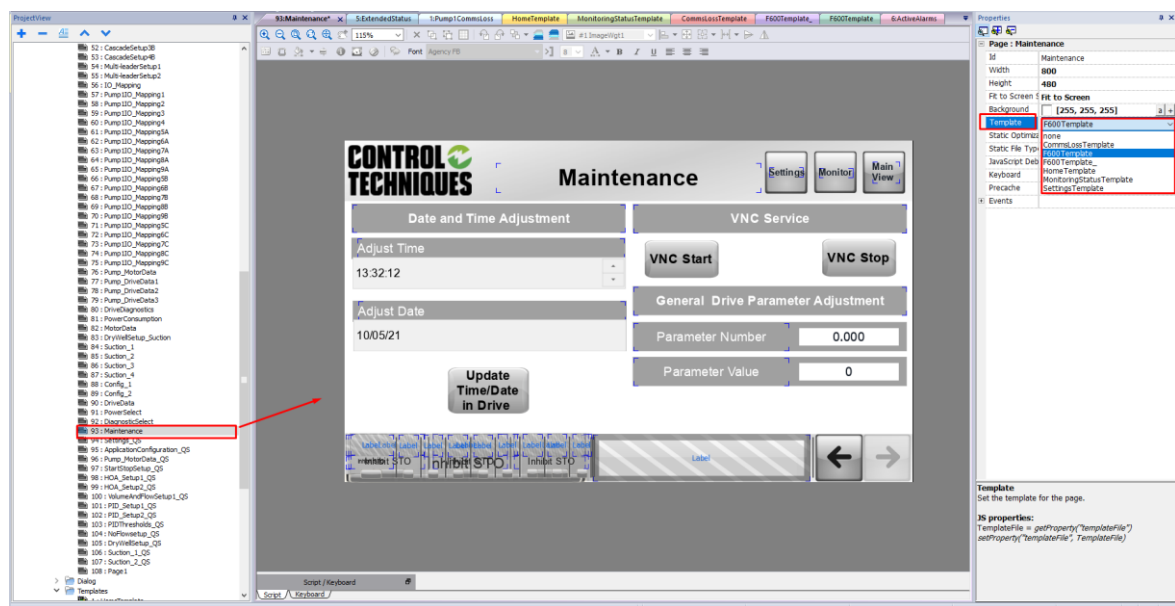

Image below with the templates created

Below is a template that was created, in this template were added keys and functions that are repetitive for different screens in the project.

Below is an example of how to use the template in the project, on the right side of the Template tab on the selected project screen, it is possible to select the desired template.

For comparison between a screen with a template and a screen without the template, I'll put two images below to compare.
